

The first roundtable took place during the openHPI forum at the Hasso Plattner Institute in Potsdam, Germany. Christian Friedl (FH Joanneum) and Agnes Zur (University of Economics Cracow) moderated the roundtable. The following experts participated in the discussion: Thomas Neumann (AVL List GmbH), Thomas Staubitz (HPI), Christian Willems (HPI), Darco Jansen (EADTU), Karina Piersig (GGG Heilbronn), Christian Falkenberg (Signavio GmbH), Wolfram Greis (Academic Mainframe Consortium), Daniel Heß (IVA), Natalie Cernecka (EdTech expert), Prof. Dr. Oliver Jokisch (Chairman of the scientific advisory board – Center für Didactics Saxony (HDS)), Dr. Markus Deimann (Universität Lübeck/ mooin), Prof. Dr. Thomas Köhler (Technische Universität Dresden / TU9).

After a short introduction round, Christian presented briefly the BizMOOC project. Then, we started the discussion on the topic of sustainability of MOOCs in general and the main project outcomes of BizMOOC (the MOOC BOOK and the Pilot MOOCs) in more detail. The experts provided valuable insights and recommendations, which have been documented and will be taken into consideration when designing MOOC BOOK 2.0.
